

PRIMEX EXPERIENCE IN MONITORING AND EVALUATION (M&E)

PRIMEX possesses a wealth of experience in the conduct of monitoring and evaluation through the use of participatory rural appraisal (PRA) techniques, including rapid social assessment, household surveys, multisectoral consultations, key informant interviews (KIIs), and focus group discussions (FGDs), and at the local, regional, or national levels. PRIMEX has also carried out baseline, midterm, and endline surveys, as well as impact evaluation/assessment studies of various development projects. It has also fielded international and national consultants to prepare Project Completion Reports (PCRs) for projects financed by loans or grants from ADB and other multilateral/bilateral agencies. Finally, PRIMEX has designed, developed, and installed computerized M&E systems and trained government personnel in the operation and maintenance of said systems established within project management units of donor-supported projects in the Philippines and overseas. Examples of these projects in the last decade include the following:
